'Ten Old Songs' – Hammy Hamilton

Initially conceived as an idea to put a few songs on record, at a night of many songs after a good meal, this idea developed as project shared between old friends Pat "Herring" Ahern, Johnny McCarthy, Yseult Cooper Stockdale and Hammy Hamilton.

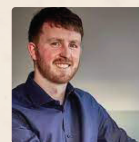

With great assistance from An Ionad Cultúrtha, who commissioned the renowned Cormac McCarthy to do the arrangements, and calling in friends who straddled the classical and traditional worlds to form a string quartet, here are old songs that Hammy has known since his teens in the north, presented in a way that's both new and old.
